Destination information

The Riviera Maya is a tourist area of Mexico, located along the Caribbean Sea, in the state of Quintana Roo in the eastern Yucatan Peninsula. Puerto Morelos is considered the first town of La Riviera Maya, which is located 35 km south of Cancun and extends to Felipe Carrillo Puerto, deep in the Sian Ka'an biosphere reserve with amazing beaches, mangroves and rainforests. Due to this location, its natural and cultural wealth is incomparable.

The hot and wet climate, with an average temperature of 25 °C, is ideal for enjoying paradisiacal white sand beaches and crystal-clear turquoise waters, including the second largest coral reef barrier on the planet. The Riviera Maya is the purest form of nature, and its unique ecosystem includes an exuberant tropical forest with abundant flora and fauna, and a system of underground rivers and cenotes. In addition, the presence of the Maya civilization in much of the state of Quintana Roo has given it a cultural and archaeological legacy of incalculable value and unique beauty. This state hosts around 31 cultural sites, some of which have been considered World Heritage Sites.
