Destination information

The city of Huelva lies on the western corner of Andalucía, at the mouth of the river Odiel. It has a long mining tradition and has been witness to important historical events, such as the discovery of America. It boasts many tourist attractions, including the cathedral of La Merced, the Plaza de las Monjas square and the Reina Victoria district, with English-style houses built in the early 20th century by one of the biggest British mining companies established in the city. Also worth mentioning is El Conquero viewpoint, which offers the best panoramic views of the city and the Odiel river estuary. There can also be found the sanctuary of Nuestra Señora de la Cinta.

Lying on the Costa de la Luz, the province of Huelva boasts some of the best beaches along Andalucía's coast, including Punta Umbría, Isla Cristina or Matalascañas, as well as an nature park —Doñana National Park— declared World Heritage Site by the UNESCO.
